INTRODUCTION

These days, typing can seem like it is not such an important skill as it once was. For example, we are becoming increasingly used to talking to our machines with the advances being made by Google Home, Alexa, Cortana, and Siri.

But typing remains a fundamental skill, and it is still one of the most important computer skills you can learn. Learning to type fast and accurately will help you in many ways in life, and it should be considered an essential skill for anyone who sees themselves working with a computer in some capacity (which is most people!).

PROJECT SPECIFICATION

- Create game UI including a difficulty setting.

- Generate random word and place in DOM.

- Score increase after word is typed.

- Implement timer.

- Add certain amount of time after word is typed based on difficulty.

- Store difficulty setting in local storage.

ADVANTAGES

Save Time

Typing is something most of us will have to do a lot of in our jobs. Whether you work in an office or not, you will probably end up having to type on a computer keyboard on a weekly or even daily basis.

Be More Productive

Everyone is looking for ways to be more productive both in the workplace and at home, and typing faster is a simple way to get more done.

Improve Your Focus

Another benefit of learning to type faster is that you will not have to look at the keyboard and think about where your fingers are going. Once you are typing fast, you will be able to look directly at the screen, and your fingers will type without you even thinking about the movements.

Better Accuracy

Learning to touch type is not just about learning how to type faster: It's also about learning how to type with greater accuracy.

Find More Opportunities

Finally, because touch-typing is such a useful skill that boosts productivity in the workplace, it can help you to find more and better opportunities when it comes to getting a job.

Learn to Type Faster

Learning to type faster will provide you with all of these benefits and more, and it really should be considered an essential skill.
